Tony Denison stars in “Major Crimes,” which opens its sixth and final season Tuesday on TNT.
Consider Tony Denison an optimist.

When word came down in early October that Season 6 of his TNT cop drama "Major Crimes" would also be its last, the actor who has played LAPD Detective Lt. Andy Flynn for 13 years across two series recalled another time when the end appeared nigh — and wasn’t.

"I remember when 'The Closer' ended and I was on the red carpet in the SAG Awards..." he says. "And they had said, ‘Well, now that ‘The Closer’ is ending, how does it feel?’ And I said, ‘Well you know what? ‘The Closer’ ending, you never know.’ And then ‘Major Crimes’ came along.

"So while I have no idea what is going to happen here..." he continues, "who knows? It could wind up somewhere else or it could be reinstated by the network. One thing I know about Hollywood is that the only thing you can be sure about is that there’s nothing to be sure about."

But what seems certain, at least at this writing, is that the series will open its sixth and final season Tuesday, Oct. 31, with the first of a two-part storyline. The final 13 episodes will take a serialized approach, focusing on three murder cases, each surrounded by complex political issues. As Cmdr. Sharon Raydor (Mary McDonnell) gets acclimated to her new boss, Assistant Chief Leo Mason (Leonard Roberts), Provenza (G.W. Bailey), Tao (Michael Paul Chan) and the other detectives will find themselves questioning their faith as they try to negotiate a rapidly changing justice system and avoid controversy.

The opening arc, "Sanctuary City," begins with the disappearance of three teens, one of whom is a “dreamer” or an undocumented migrant.

"‘Sanctuary City’ deals with a lot of the political issues roiling the country," series creator and showrunner James Duff explains. "I’m not a political writer and I don’t take a stand on political views. I just write about what’s going on in it. The country is so polarized right now. To not write about the issue of immigration in some way or another seemed inauthentic, especially since it’s affecting the law enforcement community in a very, very powerful way. And so we took on that issue."

The new season will also bring back Billy Burke as Season 3 (and "The Closer") villain Phillip Stroh, a serial killer who appears to be at it again. And for personal storylines, Duff indicates Provenza’s role will be bigger and Sharon will experience a physical challenge and — at last — matrimony with Andy, a development Denison welcomed.
Freeform will stay ‘Bold’ for a while

Q: Will “The Bold Type” be back? — Stacy Hart, Buffalo, N.Y.

A: It certainly will, and in a big way. With the attention it got during the past summer, and the perfect fit that it is for Freeform’s audience demographic, there really wasn’t a doubt that the magazine drama would be renewed. What wasn’t expected was that it would be picked up for two more seasons at once, so you can look forward to seeing the continuing exploits of the close friends played by Katie Stevens, Aisha Dee and Meghann Fahy for at least two more years—likely in the summer again.

Q: I know Daniel Dae Kim is a producer of the new show “The Good Doctor.” Will he ever be an actor on it? — Jane McNally, via e-mail

A: It’s certainly a possibility, though he seems to be concentrating on the production side for the time being. The ABC show is the former “Hawaii Five-0” and “Lost” co-star’s first such venture, so it’s fair to say that he’s learning by doing...and as virtually any producer will tell you, there’s a lot to learn.

A: At this writing, NBC hadn’t yet announced its future plans for the game show executive-produced by LeBron James and host Chris Hardwick. Technically, it’s had two seasons already, having premiered last winter and then being brought back for the spring and summer. A definite sign in its favor is that many other countries have signed up for their own versions of the series since its debut, with France, Germany and Spain among other nations that already have launched theirs...and Colombia, Hungary and Thailand set to debut theirs in the new year. When a format travels globally that fast, it’s definitely something the originating network takes a look at.

Q: I’ve seen Mariska Hargitay listed as the director on several episodes of her show “Law & Order: Special Victims Unit.” Has she directed anything else? — Tom Curtis, Providence, R.I.

A: Not at this point, but it’s reasonable to think that’s coming...though with all of her work on the NBC series (she’s an executive producer of it as well), that probably will have to wait until the show is over, whenever that may be. It takes a lot of preparation to direct something, and while Hargitay has the benefit of being as familiar with “SVU” as anyone, tackling something else from scratch would be a different story in many more ways than one.

Hargitay also is a director in another sense, since she’s the founder and president of the Joyful Heart Foundation, an organization that supports victims of sexual assault, domestic violence and child abuse. She’s said that she was prompted to create it by mail she received from “SVU” viewers, telling her of their own experiences. You may have seen televised public service announcements for the Foundation for which Hargitay enlisted many of her celebrity friends, including former “SVU” co-star Christopher Meloni.

NASCAR Racing

2 p.m. on NBCSP
With just four races to go in the NASCAR Monster Energy Cup Series playoff, the tour heads to Virginia and Martinsville Speedway for the First Data 500. At just over a half-mile in length, Martinsville is the shortest track on the Cup circuit. Jimmie Johnson won last year’s race, which helped secure his seventh championship. The big question now is: Can he and the rest of the field catch up to Martin Truex, Jr.?

2017 World Series

7 p.m. on WDAF
The last time there was a sweep in the World Series was in 2012, when the San Francisco Giants broke out the brooms on the Detroit Tigers. Barring such an occurrence, Game 5 of the Fall Classic takes place tonight, and will be the third and final game at the stadium of the team with the least favorable regular season record — the Houston Astros, who again will welcome the Los Angeles Dodgers. If Game 5 is not necessary, regular Fox programming will air.

It’s the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown

7 p.m. on KMBC
It just wouldn’t be Halloween without this, right? Linus stakes out a spot in the pumpkin patch, hoping to catch a glimpse of the Great Pumpkin. Meanwhile, Charlie Brown discovers stones in his trick-or-treat bag, Lucy becomes maternal, and Snoopy gets moonstruck. Created by “Peanuts” mentor Charles M. Schulz, the animated special — originally titled “It’s the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown,” the latter element is widely dismissed as a cerebral head-scratcher: creating an atmospheric tableau that conveys these last final seconds before a deadly danger strikes.
